Sophronia Scott Bio

Sophronia Scott has nearly twenty years of experience as a professional writer. She honed her craft working with some of the best (and toughest) editors in the world during her career at "Time" and "People" magazines.

When she published her first novel, "All I Need to Get By" with St. Martin's Press in 2004, one prominent reviewer referred to Sophronia as potentially "one of the best writers of her generation."

Sophronia holds a bachelor's degree in English from Harvard. In her current position as executive editor of The Done For You Writing & Publishing Company, Sophronia helps entrepreneurs and speakers to write and publish books to promote their businesses. Her latest work is the bestselling book, Doing Business By the Book: How to Craft a Crowd-Pleasing Book and Attract More Clients and Speaking Engagements Than You Ever Thought Possible.
